

CNN.com “blueprints”

Shortly after CNN.com launched in 1995, the team began creating special projects. I became a proponent of organizing structured thought, a bit of planning goes a long way towards efficiency and creating the right solution. I developed the first “blueprint” template for CNN and, even as primitive as it was, the tool did facilitate team communications when quickly creating mini-sites for big news events.

